HUGGED MRS. HARMER.

That is the Offense Benjamin Allgood, of Price Street Is Charged With. The Hearing Continued.

Benjamin Allgood, of 1901 Price street, was before Alderman Davies last evening charged with "hugging" Mrs. Louisa Harmer, of 910 Oxford street.

It appears that on Friday last Mrs. Harmer stood on Oxford street, a short distance from her home and Allgood approached her and asked if her husband was at home. Mrs. Harmer replied negatively, but that he would soon be.

Thereupon Allgood said he would go to the house with her and wait until her husband came. While walking toward the house Allgood placed his arm around the woman. She resented this and pushed him from her. Allgood then decided he did not want to wait for Mr. Harmer's return, and went off. The case was continued until this evening at the request of ex-Judge Stanton, who appeared for Allgood. Ex-Alderman De Long represented Mrs. Harmer.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

The members of the Central Railroad of New Jersey Social club met at the home of Mr. H. D. Barth, of 218 Van Buren avenue, Saturday evening, to celebrate the twenty-seventh anniversary of Mrs. Barth's birthday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Conklin, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Conklin, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smith, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Detrick, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fricker, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lott, Mr. and Mrs. L. Glaab, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Anthony, Messrs. James Morgan, L. Lindner, Roy Groat, William Fricker and F. Hosen, the Misses Maud Stewart and Bertha Bartl. Music and games were indulged in and refreshments were served.

MINE LABORER INJURED.

James Canavan, of the South Side, was severely injured in the Bellevue mines yesterday afternoon. Canavan is a laborer and was engaged in collecting tools scattered about the workings. He had placed several tools in an empty car and coupled the car fast to a trip of "loaders." In going down a "run" the empty, into which Canavan had climbed, jumped the track. The swing end of the car got loose and Canavan was thrown out. In falling the coupling chain caught his leg and he was dragged a considerable distance before the cars could be stopped. The injured man was taken out of the mines and removed to the Moses Taylor hospital.

THE "CYMANFA."

The first semi-annual session of the "Cymnafa" of Welsh Calvinistic Methodist churches of Eastern Pennsylvania came to a close on Sunday evening. Rev. E. Waller Jones, of Shenandoah, was granted a transfer to the New York state "Cymnafa." Letters of regret were read from Rev. John Roberts and Rev. W. E. Prytherch, both at present residing in Wales. Much discussion took place in regard to the young people of the several churches. Their position and welfare were the points under discussion but no definite action was taken. Resolutions of respect were ordered sent to the families of the ministers who have passed away since the last "Cymnafa." An important fact of the meeting was the decision relating to the future elections. It was decided to hold them by nomination of the members of the churches. The next session will be held at West Banor and will convene in the latter part of October next.

DUNMORE. An earnest appeal is issued to every organization and society in town to send delegates to Temperance hall, on Chestnut street, tomorrow evening to complete arrangements for the observance of Decoration Day.

Sunday afternoon Miss Carrie Adams, of Grove street, accompanied by Miss Tucker, of the same street, and Miss Adams telling her parents that they were going to Nay Ag Falls, and on the way home would stop in at Mr. Tucker's home in Petersburg for supper. Instead of doing this they went to the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western depot and boarded a milk train bound for Washington, N. J., where they were married. Their absence from home caused their parents great uneasiness, and after a good deal of inquiry regarding their whereabouts, they were greatly surprised to hear of what had taken place. They were also informed that they intended to return home Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker returned home last night, and were greatly surprised to find the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Adams filled to overflowing with a number of their friends, who had gathered to welcome the elopers home. No objection would be made to their coming, and it was thought that the wedding would come off at home. The bride is a charming young lady of 20, the groom being one year older.

Forty hours devotion will begin next Sunday at St. Mary's church.

WHEELMEN ARE BARRED. Cannot Use the Towpath of the D. & H. Canal Any More.

Port Jervis, May 24.—Supt. Lyman O. Rose has had notices posted all along the Delaware and Hudson canal, from Honolale, Pa., to Rondout, N. Y., forbidding the use of the towpath by bicyclists under a penalty of $5 for each offence. The canal has been a favorite route for wheelmen who frequently resorted to it when the highways were not in a good condition to ride.

No objection has been made to the use of the towpath by the canal authorities until complaints came in of the abuse of the privilege by some riders who frightened the horses of boatmen, driving them sometimes into the water and causing damage. In several instances insulting remarks have been made to the wives and daughters of boatmen in passing, and the result is that all bicyclists are made to suffer for the acts of a few lawless individuals.

Funeral of Master Robertson. Yesterday afternoon the remains of Master George Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Robertson, of 752 Clay avenue, were laid to rest in the Dunmore cemetery. The services were conducted at the house by Rev. Dr. C. E. Robinson, of the Second Presbyterian church, and Rev. John Dunn. The choir of the Second Presbyterian church rendered several selections at the house and grave. The esteem in which the youth was held was manifested in the beautiful floral tributes received and the large number of people who attended his funeral and paid their last respects. To know him was to love him, to know him was to be his friend and cherish his goodness. He knew how to make friends and how to keep them. In fact few young men had so many friends.

He won the affection of others by his kindness and many qualifications and those who had the pleasure of being his friends will greatly regret his absence.

No more his pattering feet will greet His paternal spouse to and from the car; He has closed his large, brown eyes to meet In that place "beyond the gates ajar."

Too good, too pure on earth to longer dwell A beckoning hand has bid him come To the reward he earned so well To be a star amongst the Saviour's chosen ones. B. H. D.

THEY DIDN'T BELIEVE MISS MOSBY. Three Young Men After Searching the House, Here is the Healer.

Thomas Roach, William Cotton, and Joseph Kenyon were arrested yesterday at the instance of Nora Mosby. According to the Mosby woman the three young men entered her home in Center street Sunday night in search of a girl named Mosby. The Mosby woman said the girl was not in the house, but this did not satisfy the young men and they proceeded to see for themselves. They searched high and low in parlor or in private apartments, but the girl could not be found. Finally in their wrath they all three hammered the Mosby woman with their fists and feet. She was much the worse for the beating when she appeared before Alderman Miller yesterday afternoon. The three men entered bail in the sum of $300 each for their appearance at court.

The Mosby woman is colored and has bright red hair.

ABOUT THE HOURS OF LABOR. Resolutions Passed Last Night by Central Labor Union.

The following resolutions were passed last night by the Central Labor Union: Whereas, the majority of the men employed in the building and other trades in this city are not employed one-half of their time therefore,

Resolved, That we advise strongly against the practice which now exists in some industries of working overtime beyond the established hours of labor, particularly in these times, when so many unemployed are struggling for an opportunity to work, and, in addition, a radical violation of union principles, and, whether on piece work or day work, tends to keep down the general movement for the 8-hour day.

HOW THEY INTRUDE. The President and His Family Have Little Privacy.

The Companion recently gave a few simple rules of etiquette that govern the president of the United States and his wife in their social duties. It would be timely if we could also state, at the opening of a new administration, the rules of etiquette that govern the people of this country in their social intercourse with their chief ruler; but there are no such rules.

No stranger can gain an audience with the head of another nation without passing through a rampart of guards and officials. Such a defense would offend most of our people.

Every well-bred man, as a matter of course, respects every Sunday afternoon, the rules of etiquette that govern the people of this country in their social intercourse with their chief ruler; but there are no such rules.

During Mr. Cleveland's summer residence in Marion two or three large wagons full of curious visitors would arrive almost every day at afternoon. The men and women would sit in rows on the fences of his front yard or take possession of the porches watching through the windows every movement of the family within, who could not protest, as any private family would have done, against the unenvied intrusion.

One day, while the president's wife sat sewing in the hall at Woody, a man entered, without a word, and, walking past her, minutely inspected her face and dress with a contemptuous sniff. Mrs. Cleveland's temper and good breeding were proof against even this insult.

"When you see me out," she said, gently, "will you be kind enough to close the door?"

"I don't know that I'll go out that way," was the reply, and he took a leisurely stroll through the house.

An annoyance to which the occupants of the White House are often subjected is the receipt of gifts. In a few cases, doubtless, these are offerings of a good-will, sent with a genuine friendly feeling; but the most of the presents are intended to secure a letter as an advertisement, or to bring the president under an obligation to the donor.

It is not fitting that our chief magistrate, because of his position, should be subjected to these annoyances. Officially he is the servant of the public and it should have reasonably free access to him; but his home, his wife and family do not belong to the public, and should not be subjected to intrusion or interference more than those of any private citizen.—Youth's Companion.

Redfern Corsets

FITTED FOR YOU.

You've probably heard of them before, but do you know why they bear the name of the most famous ladies' tailor in all Christendom? Probably not, so we'll let you into the secret. A clean lined and well moulded figure is as essential to the success of the Modiste as perspective is to an artist's picture. No man knows this better than Mr. Redfern, so he not only LENT THE BEST CORSET IN THE WORLD HIS NAME, but gave it his hearty and unqualified endorsement as the best.

Yet, if Redfern corsets had nothing but beauty of outline to recommend them, they would fall far short of the high standard we claim for them. Their chief merit lies in the fact that (unless deformed) EVERY WOMAN'S FIGURE CAN BE FITTED ACCURATELY AND COMFORTABLY from the various models without the slightest risk to health or sacrifice of perfect comfort. THE REASON is simply this:

are the produce of long years of study and scientific investigation on the part of the eminent Dr. Warner and ARE ANATOMICALLY CORRECT. A glance at the accompanying cut will prove this to the practical eye. Notice the gorges in the skirt and bust, the arrangement of the bones (which, by the way, are all genuine, having been taken from the Greenland whale), and even the placing of the fasteners. They're different from any other corset in the world, and they're better. France never produced anything equal to a RED-FERN CORSET, yet Redfern's are but half the price of the imported garments.

We cannot be too explicit of qualities and prices, but space is limited, and anyway, if you're really interested in corsets that improve your figure without sacrifice of comfort or injury to health, you'll probably want to
